Missing Link's 100th Haring

(FALLS CHURCH, VA) Many Mount Vernon Hashers have been accused of being hare-brained, but none of us have ever taken it to this extent. At Hash 836, Missing Link became the first to hare 100 times for MVH3. The hash recognized Missing Link's accomplishment by presenting him with an embroidered flour bag.

Just think for a moment about what this accomplishment means. Haring 100 times in 16 years means that on average, Missing Link carried flour sacks just over 16 times a year. Using the same fuzzy math, this means that he set more than 31 percent of every trail since 1987.

Missing Link started hashing in Okinawa in 1979, when hashing was still young. He joined Mount Vernon in 1987, just two years after its founding. His worst haring experience was during a snowstorm. "Only four people showed up," he said. His most frequent co-hares have been Quick Drawers, Full Metal Balls, and Slick Slit.

Missing Link's trails have a reputation for being thoroughly researched and scouted. Hashers who have yet to hare would do well to seek the advice and help of such an experienced and accomplished trail setter.

Well done, Missing Link!

The Trail

The auspicious occasion of Missing Link's 100th haring brought out a big crowd that including many long-time, no-seers such as Daddy's Dick, Do Lay Me, Fly the Friendly Thighs, Gladiator, Gomer Filer, Granny Boulders, 7 Minute Blow Job, Shellacking the Bishop, Snap Crackle Poop, and Vominatrix. Hardwood dot Cum of WH4 made her first trip to MVH3, as did virgins Just Andrew and Just Cheryl.

Early into the trail, each hasher had to make the classic decision: Should I leap from rock to rock and keep my shoes dry, or do I just plunge in and get it over with? The correct answer in this case was to get it over with, because keeping shoes dry was not an option at the second water crossing. Plus rocks can be dangerous – just ask Snap Crackle Poop. He fell, but maneuvered in such a way as to avoid injuring his wanking arm.

Another classic decision involved whether or not to give up the high ground. Standing atop a hill, Big Bird Turd declared, "I refuse to give an inch." However, the fact that his pants were around his ankles may indicate that he was speaking about something else.

Pulls Out Early called On-On from the path below. This led us beside a pool that has been open since Memorial Day, yet has not seen its first swimmer.

Many of those who made the trip to Costa Rica taunted Rocky Whore by serenading her with the song "Fernando." On trail, the scribes offered her a shot at sweet revenge, urging her to spill the rice and beans on other hashers who made trip. "I was so preoccupied with Fernando, I didn't have time to see what anyone else was doing," she said.

The trail might have been called "Tour de Cul de Sac." We went through every easement and hidden right-of-way in Falls Church. The checks were so clever that Bite Lightning repeatedly had to make his way through the pack in order to win the hash.

At beautiful Lake Barcroft, the hares treated us to a beer check. After another several punishing miles, we ended up at the home of Mr. Jones, who generously allowed the hash to infest his yard.

Congratulations to Full Metal Balls and Missing Link for a terrific trail. It was obviously the result of a lot of scouting far in advance. Missing Link says that his two-year-old daughter, Elizabeth, helped scout most of it in her stroller. Some hashers, complaining about the length, suggested that the hares be credited for setting two fine runs on the same day.

The On-In

Full Metal Balls and Missing Link grilled hot dogs and chilidogs. Side dishes included air salad, The Emperor's New Cole Slaw, and stuffed zilch. Nine bottle of Pilsner Urquell beer were available. Beyond the nine bottles of beer, hashers could opt for soda, bottled Canadian piss, or R*lling R*ck urine. Great trail, but why did we pay $5?

The day was filled with landmark achievements. Just Angie was recognized for her fifth MVH3 hash. Rocky Whore reached the century mark. Dangerously Close is up to 175 hashes. Hollow Point and Slick Slit now each have 300 runs at MVH3.

Announcements

Congratulations to Chapaquickdick and Standard Deviant, who had a baby girl on May 23: Jennifer Alexis, 6 lbs., 12 oz!

Registration forms for the 2005 InterAmericas Hash in Toronto are now online at <http://www.hogtownh3>. Sign up now while the fee is a low U.S. $150. Prices go up on July 1.

Good News and Bad News: The bad news is that local Sweetwater Tavern has lost a suit brought by Sweetwater Brewing Co. of Atlanta, regarding use of the Sweetwater name on packaged beer. Consequently, Sweetwater Tavern Pale Ale must be off shelves by June 15. The good news is that while supplies last, this tasty beer can be found for as low as $13.99 a case at places such Whole Foods Market and Norm's Beer & Wine in Vienna. Who says the hash can only afford piss?

Next Hash: June 14, MVH3 #838

Flag Day! Wear your Red, White, and Blue!
