The Back to School Hash

Playground hijinks

The skies were deep blue and completely devoid of humidity. This was a gift provided by the religious advisors, according to French Toasted. “If you really get down to it, Burnt Sox mostly watched, while I did the heavy lifting,” French Toasted said. “After pushing a few big clouds out of the way, he went over to shoot the shit with the early sign-ins. I may regret saying this later, but I wonder why I let him run for this office with me.” His hands became animated as he continued, “Everyone knows I’m really in charge of this hash. It’s me doing the work around here. Those times it rained before, after, but not during the hash? That was me!” French Toasted exclaimed, his facing growing crimson. Will the weather be as nice the following week? “I’ll let Burnt Sox see if he can handle that one,” French Toasted offered.

The Trail

(ARLINGTON) At 10:15 a.m., a pack of 86 hounds bounded after the five hares. Sorry, Microsoft, let’s go ahead and change that to hares.

As the hash started trail, it seems that Bush Master “found” a syringe. Is this a work free drug zone” asked Cuff Me Stuff Me. “Raising a little extra cash to finance home renovations?” asked Quick Drawers.

While the hares ran through Lubber Run Park twice, the pack ran through the park twice. The hares left checks in the form of problems to solve, such as back check to the square root of 45. To be fair, most of the pack figured that one out within seven minutes. Taking off shoes and socks to count takes some time. But other problems proved more difficult:

Carpenter Bagger is drinking a pint of beer at three ounces per second, while Cave Fairy is drinking a half-pint at 1.5 ounces per second. Meanwhile, Luv Bug 69, Pisser, and Udder Ho drink a pint at the rate of five ounces per second while spilling a half-ounce every other second. Who will empty their bladder first?

By the time the pack figured out that the answer to the above question had nothing to do with finding trail, they had been passed by all 21 of the hashers doing the walkers’ trail. Cunning Runt and Dr. Jekyll were among the FWBs (front walking bastards) and for a few non-fleeting moments were joined by Byte Lightening.

Trail took the pack by at least two public restrooms. “That was so the boys could smoke, and the girls could take their EPTs,” said one of the hares, harkening back to the glory days of high school.

Most of the pack finished the trail in just about an hour. It was a beautiful day to stretch our legs in Arlington trail. Many thanks to The Clorox Kid, Puppy Pimp, Two Lips In The Bush, Two Hand Job, and Vibrator for an A+ effort!

The name game

After six runs with Mount Vernon, tradition dictates that hashers that they must defend their name or get renamed. T&Ehhh gave one of the more powerful and compelling defences of a name ever witnessed and was allowed to keep her well-earned name. Tez' Smirnoff Smirk never really liked her hash name and was pleased to have the opportunity to be renamed. And so she was: Kibbles & Clits.
