Bad Beer and Beavers Reunite

There was no hash flash this week. They were both at the game. "The game." What does that mean? Anyway back to the point... I have taken the liberty to use pictures from My Privates folder.

Normally we wouldn't care that we didn't have hash flash. We don't really like those guys anyway. We are just nice to them because they have a camera. However this week we finally found beaver. You had to be there, but Semen on the Pew found a beaver in the bush and refused to pet it. One of the many gawkers said, "They have diseases and teeth. Don't touch it." It was a big beaver. At least that is what the visitor from Oslo said. Then Fuxon Command walked up and exclaimed, "That's where I left it." She retrieved her big wet hairy beaver and we all took off again. She swears her beaver doesn't have teeth or diseases like some of the other beavers.

The trail had all the makings of a great trail, but the hares managed to f it up. This place is like grilled cheese at the cafeteria. How can they screw it up so bad? But every week, they do. Just kidding. It was a great trail except for the weather. We can blame, REV for that.

We started outside the beltway. It was vurry scurry. But the hares quickly led us onto a busy street, thru a construction zone and over 495. It was an A to A trail, so we had to get back over 495...or under. To accomplish our mission we had to climb down a storm drain. PIO was kind enough to hold our butts as we climbed down. Safety First! I'm just guessing, but the guys were probably left to fend for themselves on the ladder.

Several of the hashers found beer hidden on trail (see theme). I only figured this option out when we were almost done. DAMN! Those illustrious hashers were rewarded with additional beer and admiration on trail. Them, Them, F*ck Them.

Hashers Busted for not Paying Attention

Shocking news! Several hashers were busted this Sunday for not paying attention. Without a Songmeister, the crowd was called upon to sing songs. Easy enough, right? Nope. You actually have to remember which songs have already been sung. Das Kuntz was the only violator I can remember. I wasn't really paying attention.

Quote of the Week

I got nothing

Violations

Mighty Tite for slutiness. This media slut committed a vagrant violation. He was on CSPAN2 for an hour this week talking about election scandals of the past.

Bloody Asshole for pocket pool while talking to 38 and anyone else who could stand to listen while he was scratching. They have creams for that.

321 F*ck Off and Turbo (that's all nothing else) for sex on trail. Our knight in shining armor carried the princess across the creek so she wouldn't get wet. Awwwwwe! How sweet.

Semen on the Pew, Fuxon Command and Oslo Guy (See front page story)
