

WH4 Hash Trash

Inaugural Issue

January 22 & 23, 2005

Holiday Party & Trail # 989

"Beer better than Liquor"

A senior official in the outgoing Winks/Skin administration who spoke under condition of anonymity was quoted as saying, "I'm sticking with beer because I have to drive later." The same source allegedly had 2 cases of unknown quality beer in the trunk of his car. Said the source, "I figure it'll stay pretty cold in the car since it's colder than a witches' titty out there." Officials in the new Ditch/Poone administration reportedly accused the man of not being able to hold his liquor. The source countered with, "as soon as I see you keep up with me in a keg stand, I'll admit defeat. Until then shut your pie hole." Ditch/Poone officials were unavailable for comment.

"Poor Mismanagement, Debauchery under new Administration"

The inauguration ball of the Ditch/Poone administration forewarns of 4 seasons of poor management and inconsolable residents of the Commonwealth of Virginia and the District of Columbia; as usual, residents of the state of Maryland will continue to be ignored. Constituents are expected to drown their misery in alcohol consumption and will try to raise their spirits through debauchery and song.

When asked if she was disappointed in her loss in the past election, outgoing Grand Mistress Titly Winks said drunkenly, "Hell no, I'm not depressed! I'm looking forward to enjoying my Sundays and not being held responsible for these miscreants and their constant whining." Other administration officials had decided to change parties and look for higher posts in the Ditch/Poone administration. Outgoing (TallyHo?) SCFC has mutinied to the new position of Religious Advisor (RA). When asked if he thought he was better than the outgoing RA, REV, SCFC responded that he was "looking forward to ruling the circle with higher standards and stricter punishments for offenders of all levels." Constituents were surprised to hear this stance. Cheese Wizz, long since exiled to Bowie due to her association with the likes of T'n'Eh, commented, "If I had known he was going to rule with an iron fist, I would have brought more KY."

The ball went on with various shows that were purportedly skits. One put on by the outgoing administration made light of the old RA and his anatomical problems while wearing a sarong in the circle. Showing why he had lost the election, REV, asked "why is this skit so funny?" His ignorance was relieved when RodeoFuck showed him what happened when he pulled a string. People who saw the display were laughing in fits, causing some doctors to worry about pulled diaphragms. Thankfully, hashers have moved over to the more convenient condom and have long ago given up the diaphragm.

The final skit of the evening had ministers of the Baptist church and all members of the elite religious right in fits as the new Ditch/Poone administration arrived in an S&M orgy on stage. Incoming RA at first thought I-Dream-Of-Weenie was holding up his head until he realized she was tied to GM BadDitch. Upon relaxing his head to the floor, he reported that he was able to get a revealing look at the new GM's policies. "She has nice legs and wears leather panties," he was later heard saying.

"Brewmeisters counter Campaign Finance Fraud, Blow start Van"

Outgoing Winks/Cheese administration officials have commented that they look forward to dodging allegations of shirked responsibility and transferring them to the new administration. "People have been accusing me of poor beer selection for years," complained outgoing brewmeister, PIO. "Finally I'll be able to criticize others in their bad taste in beer selection and drink my PBR in peace." Recent polling indicates that PIO's strife to support the PBR brewery may have drawn some success in recent years. Shouts of "Heineken, Schmeineken, fuck that shit! Pabst Blue Ribbon!" can be heard throughout hashes in the DC metro area and PBR sales are up 35% in the past 3 quarters.

PIO has been accused of heavy influence by campaign contributions by distributors of PBR and Schlitz. Incoming Brewmeister, F'em Dano says that while representatives from Miller and Budweiser had approached him, that he had turned down their offers citing that their beverages did not meet his exacting standards. Loyal followers of PIO and his PBR legacy were dishearten saying "they hoped there would be room for the lower classes of beer in this seemingly high-brow administration."

Lies and Slander...Lies and Slander..Lies and Slander...the scribe will deny writing any of this nonsense.

WH4 Hash Trash

Inaugural Issue

January 22 & 23, 2005

Holiday Party & Trail # 989

In what is likely to be the only sign of solidarity between the two brewmeisters, both worked dick in hand to start SSBB after the bitter cold had made starting her near impossible. Both reportedly tried to blow start her, but the extra experience of PIO from working so many years in Dupont Circle prevailed. After removing his lips from the tail pipe, PIO was quoted saying "What is this new administration going to do without these skills?" Dano committed himself to going to training classes at Freddie's in Crystal City.

"EWH3 official assaults outgoing GM"

In what appeared to be an unprovoked attack, EWH3 RA, SloppyHo, was cited with one count of assault and battery when she allegedly body checked outgoing GM MellowForeskinCheese so violently that he fell to the ground. The attack resulted in uncounted broken bones, bruises and potential brain damage. When asked what had provoked her, MFC could only recall talking about donuts and that maybe SloppyHo had taken that as an affront to senior EWH3 official, MondayStickyMonday. EWH3 administration officials were unavailable for comment.

"38Flavors excised of Snake Demons"

38Flavors was spotted impersonating the snakeskin top she was wearing. After slithering on the floor and trying to molt by taking her clothes off, religious adviser SCFC was called in to perform an exorcism on the helpless victim. After being provided a shot of Tequila, 38Flavors appeared to recover saying "it must have been the MezCal I had earlier."

"Disaster at table 24"

A disaster resulting in the expedient removal of Ditch/Poone administration scribe, SnatchShot, outgoing administration scribe R-U-N?, and RunWaySnatch was the result of excessive and dangerous dancing at table 24. TwoLipsInTheBush and 50DollarBitch were spotted attempting to maintain the integrity of the table by holding it down and act as a spotter, but were overwhelmed by the overzealous show of excitement displayed on the table. "Jell-O shots broke my wife," incoming HareRazor and concerned husband, BigBang, was quoted as saying. "I don't know why I felt so intoxicated," claimed SnatchShot. BigBang blamed it on the 10 Jell-O shots she had consumed during the night and the two had to be removed from the scene in what appeared to be a domestic dispute waiting to happen. All other participants seemed to have weathered the incident without further injury, though allegations of whiplash and unwarranted "bad-touching" remain to be settled between the rescuers.

"Incoming RA cited with Hash Shit, loss of government property, abuse of authority"

Recently elected RA, SCFC, was cited with the HashSh!t twice on the first day of his reign. During an early morning recovery event being held at the gracious HasherHumper and SpinalTap's abode, allegations of loss of government property arose. In particular, unnamed officials later recovered the Yarmulke that had been presented to him during his inauguration event. "I'm wearing the appropriate apparel," SCFC cried in his defense. However, it was noted that it was not the official WH4 supplied and did not carry the official seal of the WH4. Given proof of his delinquency, SCFC acquiesced and received the HashSh!t.

Later in the afternoon, during the normal WH4 event, SCFC was again cited for the HashSh!t for abuse of his newfound authority of RA. During the naming of incoming administration OreHo, formerly known as Just Jason, now known in the WH4 hashing tradition and throughout the world of hashing as YellowSubmarine for his pension in urinating in inappropriate locations while drunk and an anal fetish, SCFC was cited for allegedly taking far too long to pour far too much beer over YellowSubmarine given the current weather conditions that put temps well below that of a Witch's Titty in a cast iron bra.

Before this blatant abuse of power, the new RA also professed his new ambitious agenda of "cracking down on violent offenders, icing down anyone who disagrees with his policies, and subjecting the hash to his eccentricity." TwoLipsInTheBush, who was subjected to a public icing in the sub-zero temperatures said, "He said I looked at him funny, well it's not my fault. He was making obscene gestures to former administration officials and I couldn't help but laugh." TwoLipsInTheBush hopes to appeal the case to the court of supreme drunkenness and to at least have his sentence of ice sitting reduced with time served. -Two Lips

Lies and Slander...Lies and Slander...the scribe will deny writing any of this nonsense.